PEPE vs SHIB: Market Performance Analysis

Comparatively, PEPE's current price is significantly lower than its all-time high of $0.00001718, achieved on May 27, 2024, representing a 31.36% dip.

On the other hand, SHIB, the popular Shiba Inu-themed coin, has also encountered challenges in recent weeks and months. Over the past week and month, SHIB suffered losses of 13.91% and 23.06%, respectively. Despite these setbacks, the meme coin maintains a robust market capitalization of $10.86 billion, ranking it as the 12th largest cryptocurrency.

Today, SHIB is trading at $0.00001843, but its trading volume has also decreased by 26%, reaching $289.16 million in the past 24 hours. While SHIB once reached an all-time high of $0.00008845 on October 28, 2021, the coin has retraced by a significant 79.14% since then.

PEPE vs SHIB: Technical Analysis & Insights

The current price of PEPE is approaching a crucial Fibonacci pivot point at $0.00001285, with significant support levels positioned at $0.00000849 and $0.00000588. Resistance levels, on the other hand, are set at $0.00001717 and $0.00001983. A successful breakthrough of these resistance levels could herald a robust rebound for PEPE.

On the other side of the spectrum, SHIB's technical analysis paints a more bearish picture. Both its immediate and future trends display consistent downward pressure, with values remaining below the current price. The MACD indicator for SHIB also aligns with this bearish sentiment, as the MACD line falls below the signal line, suggesting an ongoing negative momentum. However, there's a silver lining in the form of SHIB's RSI, which currently stands at 30.99, nearing the oversold territory. This could indicate a potential buying opportunity if market sentiment shifts, signaling that SHIB might be poised for a recovery.

- The price of Shiba Inu (SHIB) is hovering close to the pivot level at $0.00002512. Key support levels are situated at $0.00002083 and $0.00001627, while resistance levels are positioned at $0.00002850 and $0.00003397.
- A decisive breakthrough of these resistance levels could signal the commencement of a trend reversal towards recovery for SHIB.
