What is Onyxcoin?

Onyxcoin (XCN) is a cloud blockchain infrastructure that enables organisations to build better financial services from the ground up. Onyxcoin has launched Onyx Protocol which is underlined by the native utility token XCN.

- The rebrand from Chain to Onyxcoin also introduced the Onyx Protocol. This is a permissioned and open source blockchain that allows clients to participate in the Onyx DAO as well as receiving rewards in XCN.
- The Protocol determines how assets are issued, transferred, and controlled on a blockchain network. It allows a single entity or a group of organisations to operate a network, or connect to a growing list of other networks that are transforming how assets move around the world.
- Onyxcoin was designed to cater for the needs of modern financial systems. The time to create, sign, and validate a transaction is measured in milliseconds.

XCN is designed to be a shared, multi-asset, cryptographic ledger. It supports the coexistence and interoperability of multiple independent networks, with different operators, sharing a common format and capabilities. This paired with the new Onyxcoin protocol aims to make it a flexible and valuable ecosystem.
